Roger Fenstad and Dave Anderson Sworn In to Board of Directors

CARRINGTON (February 14, 2011) - The Garrison Diversion Conservancy District welcomes Roger Fenstad, P.E., Cass County, and Dave Anderson, Pierce County, to the Board of Directors. Roger and Dave were both elected to the board in November's general election and sworn in to office at January's board meeting.

Cass County Director
Roger Fenstad

Roger Fenstad, Cass County, received his degree in Civil Engineering from North Dakota State University. He began working for Moore Engineering, Inc. in 1974 and remains there today.

Roger ran for the board with hopes to help alleviate some of the serious water issues within the state. "Water is the backbone for the future growth of our agricultural, commercial and industrial interests in the state," he says. "I would like to be part of a progressive movement to secure the future of North Dakota."

Roger and his wife, Jan, live in Fargo. They have four children and four grandchildren.

Pierce County Director
Dave Anderson

Dave Anderson, Pierce County, attended North Dakota State University to obtain his degree in Agricultural Education. He has remained in the agriculture field and is currently employed as an agricultural banker at Bremer Bank in Rugby.

Dave believes Garrison Diversion has done many good things to help the people and communities within North Dakota over the years. He says, "Garrison Diversion works to develop water in areas that are going to be an advantage to North Dakotans, whether it be for municipal water, irrigation, or other use. I look forward to being a part of that effort and in doing my part to help with those endeavors."

Dave and his wife, Pam, reside in Rugby. They have three children and two grandchildren.

The Garrison Diversion Board of Directors has 28 members, each of whom represents a member county. The board works to fulfill Garrison Diversion's mission to provide a reliable, high quality and affordable water supply to benefit the people of North Dakota.
